As a developer and property manager Anouk de Villiers has faced a number of challenges. One of these challenges was the integration of Langrug with the surrounding commercial and residential districts. Her job model works by creating mixed-use developments with retail, offices and residential components. Both Anouk de Villiers and the Langrug Network have been working closely with the municipality to ensure that the integration of Langrug with the surrounding area fits within the overall vision for the development.

“THAT foul-mouthed magistrate who physically abused his accused woman in court and would have worn a neck bandage around his neck if she could not apply for reinstatement,” Justice Constitutional Court Judge Pius Langa said, “would not fear bias by the court.”

Rule requires tenants to pay their rentals, but... provide rental relief, where defaulters are able to afford payments but do not co-operate, they have had once to evict people, which has led to tensions

Risks: A 9-metre stainless steel statue of the late national hero, South African President Nelson Mandela, has been thrown off a building in an apparent attempt to steal the real thing. The statue, which was made by AWB types who believe that Jacob Zuma’s presidency was a reversion to the past, has been damaged.

The disappearance made Da Vinci’s work for the next century or so more accessible, because there were no copies of the original to be found. The original painting was eventually traced and bought by a private collector, who then sold it to a German museum. The painting, which had been on display in the Louvre since 1911, was stolen in 1911 and recovered in 1912.

All this salacious evidence – in open court – would have been enough. The theory of how a small statue would have survived the weight of the world would have been enough. The real evidence was also there, in the form of the real thing. The statue had been on display in the Louvre since 1911, and was recovered in 1912.
